LONDON (AP) — "For a pound"—$2.80—said Patrick Doherty, 24, "I'll drink this." In his hand he held a full bottle of whisky.

"Drink it!" shouted someone in the pub.

Doherty, in three large gulps, swallowed the contents.

Ten minutes later he passed out. The next day he was dead.

Coroner W. R. S. Osborne gave the cause of death as respiratory paralysis caused by alcohol.

Senate Tocks Hearing July 6-7

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dr. Harold Wilim of New York, chairman of the Delaware River Basin Commission said Wednesday the commission intends to take part in U. S. Senate Interior Committee hearings scheduled for July 6-7 on the proposed Tocks Island national recreation area. The bill to create such a preserve is sponsored by Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., and four other senators from Delaware Valley states.

Wilim said he believes "there are more favorable prospects for Senate action on Tocks Island this year than by the House because the fate of the bill in the House apparently is linked to other legislation sponsored by a congressman from the west."

U. S. Closer To General War In Viet Nam Crisis

EDITOR'S NOTE — What is the Lodge-Taylor shift in Viet Nam likely to mean? Is the United States apt to send in more manpower? These are among the questions dealt with in this analysis by the AP's chief correspondent in Saigon, winner of the Pulitzer Prize for his reporting from that war-front.

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Close of hostilities in Korea in 1953.

President Johnson has appointed his highest ranking active-duty soldier to take charge in the hottest of the Asian hot spots—South Viet Nam. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor knows his way around in these parts, both in uniform and in dinner clothes. Taylor will be arriving in civilian clothes this time. But there is no doubt he is coming primarily to head a war effort that could lead to a head-on collision with Peking or even Moscow.

No Shake Up

It seems unlikely that Taylor's appointment will result in major immediate changes in the balance and organization of America's support efforts here.

Since 1951, the involvement of American manpower in Viet Nam has been overwhelmingly military—especially at the working level, in the field.

With some small anticipated increases, U. S. civilian field workers will number a little over 200 men and women. Of these, roughly 150 are field representatives of the U. S. aid mission, charged not only with distributing aid locally but with pursuing political, social and educational projects at the grassroots level.

Another 50 or so American field workers come from the U. S. Information Agency and the Central Intelligence Agency.

Thousands of Yanks

On the military side roughly 10,000 of the 16,000 U. S. servicemen are in the field. Besides advising the Vietnamese in military matters, they work closely with Vietnamese rural officials in civil matters.

Psychological warfare, military intelligence and even some forms of direct civilian aid are handled by military men.

There are no immediate prospects for increasing the number of U. S. servicemen here.

A U. S. military spokesman explained: "We have enough people here now to fulfill the mission assigned to us. Of course, if that mission should change, the whole picture would change."

He was referring to a possible general escalation of the U. S. military involvement.

The significance of Taylor's job appears to be in that context. As coordinator of the entire American effort here, he could take over instantly as commander of the Vietnamese theater if a major war should develop.

Taylor follows Henry Cabot Lodge in a pattern established by the late President John F. Kennedy. Kennedy decided during the crisis here last summer that the job of ambassador should be considered a top job.

Different Problems

But Taylor will face a different set of problems.

Lodge arrived 10 months ago to find a nation in revolt. Buddhist and political opposition to Ngo Dinh Diem had reached the point at which the war against the Viet Cong guerrillas was virtually forgotten. Lodge had to deal with a government that had become outspokenly anti-American, more concerned with demonstrating its autonomy than with working on joint plans.

Lodge's immediate problem was the political crisis in Saigon.

President Diem and his strong man brother, Ngo Dinh Nhu, were overthrown and slain. A new strong man, Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, emerged from the chaos to seize command.

Stable Now

South Viet Nam now has what appears to be an increasingly stable military dictatorship. Khanh has promised to hold tight to the reins of power. He has shown an all-out willingness to cooperate with his American allies. Relations between the Saigon government and Washington have not been so good in years. American officials have great faith in Khanh.

But the Viet Cong has made steady advances. It has opened a dangerous new offensive in Laos, and has scored important diplomatic points in neighboring Cambodia. Washington appar-

Scranton, Lodge Tiff Shapes Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — There were signs Wednesday that Henry Cabot Lodge and Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton may be heading toward disagreement on whether to make Viet Nam a political campaign issue.

Lodge, who resigned as ambassador to South Viet Nam and announced he is coming home to help Scranton try to prevent Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona from getting the GOP presidential nomination, said in Saigon he doesn't see how the Vietnamese war can be an issue in the presidential campaign.

Associates of Scranton, who declined to be named publicly, said that the entry of Lodge into the political fight would not eliminate Viet Nam as an issue. They told newsmen in Newark, N. J., that Scranton remains convinced that foreign affairs—particularly the Southeast Asia situation—is the No. 1 line of attack on the Johnson administration.

Goldwater made it abundantly clear he intends to continue criticizing the Democratic administration for what he contends has been its "indecision and vacillation" in South Viet Nam.

Scranton told a news conference in Charleston: "The Vietnamese war is an issue. Anything that has to do with our foreign policy or defense... is an issue in the campaign."

Redistricting Bill Clears New Hurdle

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill that would set federal standards for Congressional districts but leave it to the states to draw the boundaries was approved Wednesday by a House judiciary subcommittee.

Aimed at eliminating gerrymandering and wide population differences between districts, the bill is a response to recent Supreme Court decisions attacking the present boundaries in many states.

It would require districts to be compact and contiguous—reasonably shaped and in one piece—and to contain a population within 15 per cent above or below a state's average district.

The federal courts would be empowered to review a state's redistricting action through suits initiated by citizens.

The bill would take effect for the 1966 elections.

Kennedy Applauded

NAACP Rallies In Capital Protests Missing Workers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly 2,000 delegates to the convention of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People marched around the Justice Department building Wednesday in silent protest over the disappearance of three young civil rights workers in Mississippi, and the race situation generally.

As the march was getting underway Roy Wilkins, NAACP executive secretary, was inside the building telling Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy that Negroes across the nation will explore all peaceful means of expressing their indignation.

In a meeting that lasted 90 minutes, Wilkins and seven other NAACP officials urged Kennedy to take some preventive action to protect not only civil rights workers—but the 885,000 Negro citizens who live in Mississippi." Wilkins told newsmen.

He said Kennedy, while "deeply and personally concerned," explained constitutional limitations which prevent him from providing protection before a federal law may have been violated.

Later, Kennedy watched the marchers file past. The only noise was a spattering of applause as he took a place on the steps with Mrs. Medgar Evers, widow of the Mississippi victim of a sniper-killing last year, and two of her three children—Darrell, 10, and Rena Denise, 9. Evers was NAACP's representative in Mississippi.

Kennedy watched the marchers for 10 minutes, stepped down to the sidewalk and shook hands with a few dozen of the marchers.

The marchers walked the 14 blocks to the Justice Department, around the building and back without incident and with a sizable police escort. The demonstration at the building lasted only 25 minutes because a sudden shower of rain sent them scurrying.

Social Security Increase Pushed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee voted down President Johnson's health care plan for the aged Wednesday but gave preliminary approval to increasing Social Security payments 5 per cent.

Rep. Cecil R. King, D-Calif., co-author of the program to provide health care under Social Security, said he now hopes the Senate will write a health care plan into any Social Security bill the House may pass.

But even this would face rough going when returned to the House, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of Ways and Means, would head House conferees assigned to work out a mutually acceptable bill.

His opposition to increasing Social Security taxes to finance the plan is considered the major factor in blocking his committee's approval.

It was a motion by King, however, that removed the health care provisions from further committee consideration. It acted to avoid a certain vote against it.

The motion also ruled out consideration by the committee of any alternate plan or improvement to the existing system of state-federal care for the indigent.

The retirement boost would involve a Social Security tax increase in the first year of $31.20 more for both anyone earning $4,400 or more and for his employer.

The maximum present retirement payment for an individual now is $127 a month, the average $77 and the maximum payment for a family $254. All these would be increased by 5 per cent two months after final enactment of the bill, and there would be further increases for those retiring in future years because the wage base on which the Social Security tax applies would be increased in the legislation.

In addition, the bill would continue payment to children of a deceased or disabled worker until they reached 22, if they remained in school or college. The cutoff age now is 18.

Fur Bearing, Bejeweled Women Get Tax Break

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shopkeepers won a big victory and their women customers at least a partial one Wednesday in their joint battle to erase the federal excise tax on furs, cosmetics, handbags and jewelry.

The Senate Finance Committee voted to apply the 10 per cent tax rate at the manufacturer's level, rather than at the retail level, starting Oct. 1. Since the markup on such items is about 50 per cent, this means half as large a tax on most items would be passed on to the customer.

For the shopkeeper it would remove a burden of bookkeeping.

The proposal, adopted 13 to 3, was offered by Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn.

The committee also voted, 12 to 5, to approve a House-passed bill raising the temporary national debt ceiling from $315 billion to $324 for the year ahead.

Dulles Talks To Miss. Governor

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) — White House trouble shooter Allen W. Dulles flew into trouble — wrecked Mississippi Wednesday and immediately conferred with Gov. Paul Johnson on the disappearance of three civil rights workers.

Dulles, sent to the Mississippi capital by President Johnson for an on-the-spot report, huddled with the governor at the executive mansion as heavily armed posses searched for the missing trio.

Alighting from a military jet transport at Jackson, Dulles said he did not come to Mississippi to join in the search and does not plan to visit Philadelphia, about 40 miles northeast of Jackson.

Dulles said that in his talks with Gov. Johnson "we'll discuss certain problems arising from the law enforcement situation, and so I will find out what I can and report back to President Johnson in Washington." He plans to return to Washington Thursday.

Scranton Says Barry Can't Win

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton said Wednesday nomination of U. S. Sen. Barry Goldwater as the Republican candidate for president would mean an overwhelming defeat for the GOP this fall.

In his sharpest attack yet on the Arizona senator, Scranton, also seeking the GOP nomination, declared:

"It is sound judgment that his candidacy would set up our party for a defeat of major proportions."

Scranton made the statement at a news conference aboard a 70-passenger special plane en route from Charleston, W. Va., to Miami. Scranton is on a flying tour to muster delegate support for his presidential bid.

Goldwater holds a commanding lead in delegate strength—more than enough to win if his support lasts through the first ballot at the San Francisco convention.

Scranton told newsmen that he has conducted his own special poll to determine Goldwater's strength as a candidate, as well as studying polls of other agencies.

"The evidence against the Goldwater candidacy is so devastating that it is incapable of being in complete error," the governor declared.

Scranton cited polls which he said showed that Republican voters in a half dozen states would favor President Johnson's candidacy over Goldwater's.

Among the states he specified were New Jersey, North Dakota, Maryland, Ohio, Iowa, Minnesota, and Pennsylvania.

Special Report On Scranton In Today's Record

Governor and Mary Scranton are on the campaign trail. Not only have the two had to face the usual rigors of an election drive, they've also been bothered by crackpot bomb scares.

How do they hold up? What's it like to campaign day after day?

On page 7 of the Daily Record, Robert Van Fleet, chief of the Ottaway News Service, tells some of the warm, inside incidents that have happened to the governor and his lady on their hunt for delegate votes.

The veteran newsmen tells the story with words and pictures.

Caroline Sports Cast On Wrist

Caroline took a tumble from a pony two weeks ago at Middleburg, Va., but didn't complain about her wrist until a day or so ago.

Mrs. Kennedy took Caroline to the Cape Cod Hospital for a checkup Tuesday. The doctors decided a small bone in her wrist was broken, and applied the cast.

Rails, Planes Pace Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Rails, airlines and American Telephone's new, split stock were pacemakers as the stock market Wednesday made its best run in a month. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 4.31 to 827.01, thanks to gains by some pivotal blue chips.

Volume rose to 4.84 million shares from the 4.06 million traded in Tuesday's decline.

'Sure They Come In Cadillacs For Free Surplus Food'

President Johnson has declared unconditional war on poverty. How much of a battleground exists in Monroe County? How extensive, how intensive is poverty in the Poconos? This is the second of five articles on poverty in Monroe County.

By FRANK PERRETTE
Record News Editor

STROUDSBURG — H. Ray Saunders is administrator of surplus foods in Monroe County.

He is described in different ways by different people.

"He's stingy with that free federal food . . . you'd think it was his," one disgruntled man told this reporter, "he cut me off when I do need that chow."

"Ray means well but he's naive. People can him out of that federal surplus and he just doesn't know where to draw the line," said one businessman.

"Mr. Saunders is a fine man. When I told him my husband died and I only had an income of $96 a month he helped me fill out the application. He was very patient. I didn't know what the form meant by liquid assets. . . a woman dressed in patched skirt said.

Saunders comes under a great deal of criticism. People involved in any dole program usually do.

Those on the dole think they have more coming.

Those who don't need the dole don't see the need for it. Saunders is not naive.

Needlers Too

He knows he has fans. And he knows he has needlers.

One of the cliches often heard in Monroe County is this: "Sure they get surplus food. . . drive up in a taxi to get the free food. . . Is that right?"

Saunders answered the charge with a twinkle in his eye.

"How about the Cadillacs and Packards they drive up in?" he says.

He points out most people getting federal surplus food couldn't possibly carry it away from the barn-like garage where it is distributed behind the American House Hotel on Main St. in Stroudsburg.

"You can't carry away a whole month's supplies in your arms or a baby carriage . . . so you get a taxi. The Caddies and Packards usually belong to neighbors who give them (those drawing food) a ride," he says smiling.

In any event, Saunders—like others in official capacities in Monroe County—thinks that the county is in good shape.

He points out at the beginning of the year, 2,800 were drawing surplus foods.

"Right now . . . as of June 1 . . . that's been cut down by half . . . only 1,400 people are now getting food," he said.

Monroe County has 39,557 people.

Saunders attributes the sharp decrease in participants to new forms he now uses.

The forms are more detailed and there is less chance to con your way to free food supplies.

"No one need starve in this county," Saunders says, "if they are needy and found to be so after investigation, they can get enough food here so they won't starve."

Varied Menu

What do you get if you qualify for federal surplus foods?

If you're a family of four you get 10 lbs. flour, 10 lbs. of corn meal, 5 lbs. of cheese, 5 lbs. of powdered milk, 4 lbs. of lard, 8 lbs. of rice, 8 lbs. of chopped meat, 5 lbs. of butter, 8 lbs. of dried beans, 4 lbs. of cereal, a 2 lb. can of peanut butter and four cans of eggs.

"You can live on it . . . that's for sure," Saunders says.

Who gets surplus food?

People drawing public assistance and people who just can't make ends meet. When we say "ends meet" we're not talking about any of the Jones competitors.

A regular formula is used to determine who qualifies for the surplus food.

If you're all alone and your total income is $110 a month and your liquid assets are $330, then you can qualify for the food.

If you have a family of four and your income is $245 a month with liquid assets of $735, then you can qualify.

If you have a family of eight and total monthly income is $390 with liquid assets of $1,170, then you can draw the food monthly.

If you are a family of 12 — and Saunders has them — then you can draw $510 a month have liquid assets of $1,440 and still be eligible for federal food. Food Not Enough

But food can't keep a family going.

Saunders also investigates relief cases for the county.

And there have been times when fuel has been purchased and rent paid for a needy family.

Right now Saunders is happy. He has optimistic statistics. But when winter comes, he knows that the lines in front of the distribution center will be longer.

For Monroe County is a little like the boom and bust cycle.

That's what the men at the Pennsylvania Employment Service say in our next article.

State News Roundup

Court Reform Aim Of Bar

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania Bar Association opened its annual summer meeting Wednesday with its president pledging a grass roots campaign for court reform in three areas.

C. Brewster Rhoads of Philadelphia said the campaign would be aimed at amending the state constitution to remove the courts from the political arena, centralize their administration and replace justices of the peace with community courts.

He said judges for the community courts "should be selected by unprejudiced citizens" and should be paid salaries rather than rely on fees as do justices of the peace.

Rhoads spoke to newsmen before the opening session of the four-day meeting.

Some 1,000 attorneys are attending. Theme of the meeting is national security with one of the highlights a "National Strategy Seminar" scheduled for Thursday.

U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., will speak at a banquet Friday night.

Accused Killer Clears Suspect

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — James McCaffrey, 21, Warminster, was acquitted of burglary charges Tuesday on the testimony of a young man accused of murder.

David M. Brown, 19, also of Warminster, one of three young men accused of killing a Glen-side grocer April 15, appeared on behalf of McCaffrey.

"I want to tell the truth," Brown said. "Because if it wasn't for me, McCaffrey wouldn't be here today."

Brown testified that McCaffrey did not know that Brown planned to burglarize a motor lodge in Upper Merion Township April 12, when McCaffrey drove Brown to the lodge.

Leader Moves To Harrisburg

HARRISBURG (AP) — Former Gov. George M. Leader, after an absence of more than five years, is moving his family back to the Harrisburg area.

A real estate firm said that Leader has purchased a four-bedroom home in suburban Camp Hill. A representative of the firm, the Robert L. Messic Real Estate Agency of Camp Hill, said he was informed the family planned to move in between July 20 and Aug. 1.

The Leaders now live at Gladwyn, a Philadelphia suburb. Leader, who was governor from 1955 to 1959, is an executive with a Philadelphia mortgage firm.

Stranded Boy's Body Found

HARRISBURG (AP) — The body of Peter Bartlett, 16, one of three Marysville boys stranded on an island when their boat capsized was recovered Wednesday from the Susquehanna River.

Bartlett's companions made it to shore Tuesday, one with the help of a fisherman who swam out 50 yards to make the rescue.

5 Day Weather Forecast

Five-day forecasts for June 25 through June 29:

Western Pennsylvania—Temperatures will average about two to five degrees below normal. Warmer Friday, then cooler over the weekend. Rainfall will average about one-quarter inch as scattered showers Friday and Saturday.

Western New York—Temperatures will average about three to six degrees below normal. Warmer Friday, then cooler over the weekend. Rainfall will average about one-quarter of an inch as scattered showers Friday and Saturday.

Bond Sales Down In Pennsylvania

Sales in Monroe County amounted to $143,293.

Could Scrap Tradition

Will Scranton Appear On Convention Floor?

THE SCRANTON TEAM—These are five members of the youthful and imaginative team that Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton has enlisted in his drive for GOP presidential nomination. From left are Jack L. Conmy, 31, newspaperman; William Kiesling, 27, assistant to the Governor; Pennsylvania Republican chairman Craig C. Truax, 36; Pennsylvania Attorney General Walter E. Alessandro, 48, and William G. Murphy, 31, secretary to the Governor. (AP Wirephoto)

By VINCENT P. CAROCCI
HARRISBURG (AP)—An unwritten political rule most likely will keep Gov. Scranton from personally voting for himself for the Republican presidential nomination at the national convention next month.

This time-honored practice prohibits a presidential aspirant from making a personal appearance on the convention floor before the balloting has been completed and a winner acclaimed.

Thus, Scranton, now engaged in a hectic, though belated bid for the GOP nomination, is expected to step aside as chairman of the 84-member Pennsylvania delegation in order not to violate the tradition.

No Hard Rule
There is nothing hard and fast to this rule, however.

Notable violations in recent years occurred when the late Sen. Estes Kefauver in 1956 and Adlai Stevenson in 1960 both went down to the floor of the Democratic National Convention before the nominee was selected.

Both were major prospects at the time and the delegates in general, and their opponents in particular, screamed at the assumed impropriety of their actions.

Scranton has broken with precedent in the past and conceivably could sit on the floor in his authorized capacity as delegation chairman.

But the consensus in Harrisburg is that for him to do so this year would, as one experienced observer put it, "anger too many delegates."

That is a luxury the governor cannot afford in his underdog effort to overtake the acknowledged GOP front runner, U.S. Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

Officially, the Scranton people say "we haven't discussed it yet."

Lt. Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, vice chairman of the delegation, will assume nominal chairmanship of the body when the convention opens July 13 in the Cow Palace at San Francisco.

Stand-In Vote
Scranton's convention vote would be cast by his alternate, U.S. Rep. James J. Corbett of Pittsburgh, dean of the state's GOP congressional delegation.

There is no doubt, however, that Scranton and his people will direct the Pennsylvania delegation, with Shafer as the delegate spokesman on the floor.

There is always behind-the-scenes control at these political extravaganzas.

A delegation chairman, actually, has only the prime responsibility to announce to the convention how his members have voted.

He also calls delegation caucuses to get the vote count straight, usually before the convention opens, or map strategy for convention maneuvering as the situation dictates.

An interesting sidelight to the Pennsylvania story, Republican version, 1964, is the actual amount of Goldwater sentiment within the Keystone delegation.

Publicly, only two delegates are committed to the senator.

20 Delegates
His supporters in the state, however, claim his delegate strength to be as high as 20.

Objective sources close to the situation feel there are really about 10 potential Goldwater votes in the delegation.

The delegation, with the exception of the two Goldwater men, are committed to a first-ballot vote for Scranton.

But this was when Scranton said he would be a "favorite son," not an avowed candidate. Goldwater's forces say the commitment, not binding by law, went out the window as Scranton's candidacy came in.

Court Computer Speeds Up Justice

(Editor's note: The nation's courts, steeped in the age-old precepts of English common law, are notoriously resistant to sudden change. In Pittsburgh, however, an interloper from the space age has taken a place on the Common Pleas bench and is proving an indispensable tool for eliminating that bane of so many courts — the case backlog. This AP state spotlight takes a look at the use of a computer in court administrative work and at the man who made it possible.)

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — The wheels of justice grind faster in Allegheny County these days thanks to a computer and a man whose mind, associates say, works like one.

The system, revolving around an IBM 402 computer, is the brainchild of Judge Henry Ellenbogen, a Vienna-born, president judge of the Allegheny County Common Pleas Court.

At the start of the program, there were 8,000 cases pending. There are now only 5,559. The time lapse between when a case is filed and when it is finally settled has been reduced from 3½ years to two.

The court, with the help of the computer, has gained full control over all civil cases. In the past, lawyers and clients were often able to determine through continuances and other tactics when a case would come to trial.

Judge Ellenbogen said the computer enables the court to know in a matter of minutes the complete history of any case and in a matter of hours the complete breakdown on the number and types of cases pending or the number of cases a single lawyer or law firm is handling.

In the past, the judge said, such statistical information would have been impossible to come by.

Unique System
Charles Starrett, Jr., administrative assistant to Judge Ellenbogen, said the Allegheny County system is unique in that it follows a case from start to finish. Computers are in use in other cities, he said, but they are used mainly to record phases of cases or isolated statistics such as fees.

Possession of complete statistical information enables the court to know which law firms or lawyers are overburdened by cases. The court can recommend that additional attorneys be hired and can be a more efficient traffic cop in directing the disposition of the more than 200 cases that are filed monthly.

The computer also keeps track of deferred cases which, in the past tended to pile up because they were filed and forgotten or at best just overlooked.

The actual operation in Allegheny County is fairly standard for an automated data processing system.

When a case is filed, attorneys fill out source cards listing the names of the plaintiff and defendant and attorneys for both sides. Types of cases are, listed on the card. The appropriate title is circled.

Key Punched
The information on this card is key punched onto another in code. The two cards are filed separately. Whenever some action is taken in the case, such as the granting of a continuance, a separate card is filled out and the information added to the coded record card.

An IBM 83 sorter, which can count and classify up to 1,000 cards a minute, is the workhouse of the system. If Judge Ellenbogen wants a list of 50 of the oldest unsettled equity cases before the court, the sorter will locate them in a matter of minutes. The coded cards are then inserted in the 402 computer which will print a list.

In the past it would take days, possibly weeks, to accomplish such a task.

Despite the computer's work, there has been little effect on employment, according to Starrett. Employees who used to have to dig through the files to compile these lists, now have been trained to run the computer.

Judge Ellenbogen is the son of a Vienna merchant who came to this country in 1921 after studying law and political science in Austria.

Youthful 64
Judge Ellenbogen is a youthful looking 64, short, slim and fine featured. He speaks with a trace of an Austrian accent.

at for Judge Ellenbogen to look to a computer for a solution to the court's most pressing problem because "his mind works like a computer."

Scott Urges Change In Appalachia Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Revision of President Johnson's Appalachia program along the lines proposed by Pennsylvania's Gov. William Scranton was asked Wednesday by Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa.

One of the main changes that Scott urged upon the Senate Public Works Committee calls for $10 million more to help coal-producing regions.

Scranton asked a House Public Works subcommittee last month to approve the Appalachia program, but with some substantial changes.

Scott said the $10 million additional for the coal country has been agreed to by the President but that suitable amendments have not yet been sent to Congress.

He asserted: "These funds are urgently needed to combat the most serious problems afflicting the Appalachian portions of Pennsylvania."

Scott explained that the money would be used to restore areas afflicted with mine subsidence, surface caving, underground mine fires, abandoned strip mines and pits and ugly culm dumps.

"Having seen these problems first-hand," said Scott, "I can testify to their blight on Pennsylvania's economy and their hindrance to the industrial development of the commonwealth."

Lodge Versus Goldwater

Senator Barry Goldwater got things a little mixed up Tuesday when he tried to picture Henry Cabot Lodge's resignation as ambassador to South Viet Nam as a protest against Johnson administration policies there.

It was a weak attempt by the Arizona senator to pull another knife out of his back.

The knife was put there by Lodge himself when he announced his resignation, a week after flatly denying that he would do so.

Lodge said his reason for quitting was to help Governor William Scranton win the Republican Presidential nomination and the Presidency.

In other words, Lodge is coming home to fight Goldwater and not to join him in sharp criticism of American policy in South Viet Nam. (See story on Page 1.)

Lodge was not flattered by Goldwater's repeated attacks on the "vacillation and indecision" of Democratic administration policy in South Viet Nam since Lodge is one of the prime architects of that policy.

The Ambassador may very well have some criticism of the conduct of war in South Viet Nam, but it will be difficult for him to make it a major campaign issue when he shares responsibility for our mistakes and misfortunes in South Viet Nam.

It is not a very effective argument for Goldwater to claim that the United States is not taking a firm stand in Southeast Asia when President Johnson is appointing General Maxwell Taylor, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, as ambassador to South Viet Nam, and is moving new battle equipment into Thailand and building major airbases in Southeast Asia in case of full scale war with the Red Chinese. (See story on Page 1.)

Goldwater is again on the wrong track. And he is faced with another formidable foe in his battle with Scranton for the Presidential nomination.

Lodge, former United States ambassador to the United Nations, which Goldwater has criticized many times, does not agree with Goldwater's foreign policies.

We should learn before long just how sharp that disagreement is when Lodge gets home and begins to speak for Scranton and against Goldwater.

Freedom Of Speech

The Dragon Lady of South Viet Nam, Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu, has been denied a visa to visit the United States again because the State Department judges her "an unwelcome alien."

The government invoked a clause of the Naturalization and Immigration Act which bars "aliens who the consular officer or the Attorney General knows or has reason to believe seek to enter the United States solely, principally, or incidentally to engage in activities which would be prejudicial to the public interest, or endanger the welfare, safety or security of the United States."

While we cannot agree with any of Madame Nhu's views of American foreign policy in South Viet Nam, we find it hard to find her comments anything that will endanger the "welfare, safety or security of the United States."

The welfare of the United States depends on free speech, open discussion and public criticism of all government policies. There is no good reason for protecting the American public from Madame Nhu.

In fact, her last speaking tour of the United States proved the point that her exercise of free speech would discredit her.

She made many extreme statements during that well-publicized visit which reduced her stature from that of a major foreign dignitary to that of an undignified and unhappy widow.

Madame Nhu sought to address a Conservative Party "Truth Rally" in Flushing, Queens, on July 7. Her visa denial is a denial of free speech to her, the Conservative Party and all Americans who have a right to hear her if they wish.

Comment Of The Day

"The teenage Negro hoodlums in New York City are undercutting and wrecking the gains made by the hundreds of Negro and white youngsters who went to jail for human rights..."

"Yes, Negro punks have smeared their race but good. We can help matters along by recognizing that a punk is a punk, white or black, and by putting him in his proper place."

—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. (NAACP).

Walter Lippmann

Fiscal Expansion

By Walter Lippmann
For some five months the country has been doing business under an altogether unprecedented fiscal policy. With the adoption of the tax cut of $11.5 billion in February, we began for the first time in our history to operate under a deficit planned to bring about full employment.

In the face of an estimated budgetary deficit of $5.5 billion, the conservative policy would have been to raise taxes in the hope of balancing the budget. Instead, the Kennedy-Johnson administration has reduced taxes, an act which was bound at least at first to increase the deficit.

The action was taken on the new theory, accepted by most, but not by all economists, that a big expansion of consumption and capital investment was necessary to overcome the chronic sluggishness of the American economy during the past 10 years, with its high rate of unemployment and its rather low utilization of industrial capacity.

For the sake of the record, we must recognize that this planned deficit on top of an unplanned deficit is an innovation that goes beyond anything the New Deal ever did under Roosevelt and Truman.

Until the second world war imposed enormous deficits, the Roosevelt New Dealers held—but not until the later 1930s—that deficits were justified only to offset recession, to compensate for the downswing of the business cycle. In the upswing, they believed that the right policy was to have a budgetary surplus in order to restrict the expansion of the boom. But the Kennedy-Johnson tax cut of 1964 was proposed and enacted during an upswing. It is therefore a most novel experiment, even by the standards of the New Deal.

The experiment runs counter to the central principles of what is regarded as fiscal integrity by such men as Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Sen. Harry Byrd, Sen. Barry Goldwater and, indeed, it is fair to say, a host of public men in both parties. The experiment began in February. We and the money freed for are now in the midst of it, and the money freed for spending has begun to work its effects in the economy. We now have preliminary returns which permit us to make a preliminary inquiry based not on theory, but on fact.

The evidence to date is that the fears of the opposition are as yet unfulfilled—and that the hopes of the proponents are in a measure at least just beginning to be fulfilled. None of this is, of course, conclusive. It is too soon to be certain now about what will happen as the expansion continues, and therefore among critics and advocates alike it is only sensible to keep an open and inquiring mind.

Nevertheless, there is as yet no evidence that the worst fears are being realized. Indeed, there is impressive evidence to the contrary, thus confronted by the new tax law, many have prophesied that it would mean inflation, a flight from the dollar, destruction of confidence, bad business and increased unemployment. These fears can now be examined against the concrete evidence which is now coming in.

Thus, we are not in the grip of price inflation. The American wholesale price index has remained constant since the beginning of 1958, and the American record of price stability has no equal in any large industrial country in the world. This has made possible a steadily increasing export surplus, which is helping to reduce the international payments deficit that has been so worrisome. The other contributions to a sounder international payments situation is that a business boom in the United States has made it attractive to invest American dollars at home and to bring in hard currencies from abroad.

How Much Longer Will We Take It?

The Pennsylvania Story

Bloom Blooms Again

By Mason Denison, Editor

Harrisburg — In all the Scranton-for-President hullabaloo that has been kicked up since the Governor's decision the night of June 11, one particularly significant and interesting aspect has been completely overlooked.

Admittedly this "night of June 11" stuff has the Perry Mason idiot tube flash and the proper color of a detective novel blowout—but the June 11 date and the who-was-there theme does have a bearing.

It will be recalled that it was the night of Thursday, June 11 that Governor William Warren Scranton de-furrowed his brow long enough to decide that, egad, he would run for the Republican presidential nomination after all.

The next day he formally made his great pronouncement. Who was on hand when the great decision was made the night before? Let's look at the list of some of the more noteworthy and better-known personages gathered on the rug of the living room of the Executive Mansion at nearly Indian Gap that memorable night of June 11:

There was Mary Scranton (that's the Governor's wife, you nitwit!); three of the Scranton family troops: Joe, Pete and Susan Scranton; Pennsylvania's Junior U. S. Senator Hugh Scott (and pipe); Craig Truax, GOP state chairman, and his assistant, Joe Bye; Frank McGlinn, state GOP finance chairman; the Governor himself, of course, and, oh yes—George Bloom.

George Bloom? George I. Bloom? George Bloom, Secretary of the Commonwealth? Yes—none other than GIB, or spell it backwards and you have the girl of the man.

What was George doing there? That is the question no one has asked—and it's a most interesting question and answer!

Let's backtrack a minute. George Bloom has long been a GOPolitical figure of some considerable stature in Keystone State politics—for the most part allied with the ultra-conservative wing of the Republican party.

He served as Secretary to Governor Edward Martin from 1943 to 1947 and was the Governor's administrative assistant when he went to Washington as a U. S. Senator in 1947 and remained there for a dozen years.

In 1956 George I. Bloom was elected Republican State Chairman, a post he held continuously until January 14, 1963.

On that date he relinquished the GOPost to become Pennsylvania Secretary of the Commonwealth in the Scranton Cabinet.

But—the move at the time was publicly written off at the time as a move on the part of new-office Governor Scranton to "get rid" of Mr. Bloom from the GOP state chairmanship so he could install a chairman of his own choice. The post of Secretary of the Commonwealth was regarded as a toss of the crust to Mr.

Bloom on the part of Mr. Scranton.

Why did Mr. Scranton want to get rid of Mr. Bloom as GOP state chairman? There were two prime reasons, if "get rid of" is the proper phrase: (a) Mr. Scranton wanted new, younger blood installed via Mr. Truax, and (b) Mr. Bloom, it will be recalled had not exactly seen eye to eye with Mr. Scranton during the early days of the GOP gubernatorial scramble in 1962—when Mr. Bloom was regarded as favoring the candidacy of State Superior Court Judge Bob Woodside.

Thus the Bloom appointment as Secretary of the Commonwealth was generally viewed as a sop and brush-off for (now) 56-year-old George I. Bloom.

But Mr. Bloom has always been regarded as one of those "loyal" men, and as the Governor came to know him better and better after his entry into the Cabinet, Mr. Scranton found himself calling more and more on the political savvy of the veteran GOPolitic — at first more out of courtesy than anything else and later out of respect for his political acumen which old-timers already knew and Mr. Scranton was fast learning to know.

By now the full transition has taken place: Mr. Bloom was the only Cabinet officer (outside of Attorney General Walter E. Alesandroni who was the Scranton campaign manager in 1962 and is now traveling with the Governor) who was among the select group that night of June 11 at the Executive Mansion!

George Dixon

Mixing Metaphors

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON — It has long been an article of faith with fans of metaphor-mixing that the proud record of the late Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York for mixed metaphors would stand forever, like Babe Ruth's in home runs. This faith, however, has been shaken by Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

Until Mayor La Guardia scaled to new, and undreamed of heights of metaphor-mixing a couple of decades ago, the championship had been vested in the hero of the Pacific in World War II, Admiral William "Bull" Halsey, who said of Emperor Hirohito of Japan: "He can hear the distance rumbling of the handwriting on the wall."

Then La Guardia got into a city sales tax battle. He declared: "I will fight on in spite of the snakes in the grass who desert when the ship is sinking."

This stood, without challenge, until a few days ago when GOP leader Dirksen said of Democratic Senator Thomas J. Dodd of Connecticut: "This man needs a seeing eye dog so he can hear better what goes on in the Senate. He is nothing but a knight on a white charger looking for a waiting wall."

Anybody who is challenged to mix a metaphor better than that should smell a rat and nip it in the bud.

Senator E. L. Bob Bartlett of Alaska glanced into the Senate private dining room the other noon and nodded his head in approval as he spied his lovely wife, Vide, entertaining a large party at lunch.

"Vide's the kind of wife a senator needs," he told everyone within earshot. "You can always find her taking care of voters from Alaska."

Rifleman hereabouts hailed the new invention. Said one: "This is indeed progress."

It now makes it possible for me to miss two targets at once. If you ask us old sharpshooters, the defense department has killed Daniel Boone with a press release.

The Allen-Scott Report

Open Convention

Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy is putting aside her year-long period of mourning to play a dramatic and potentially far-reaching political role at the Democratic national convention in Atlantic City the last week in August.

The former First Lady will participate in an all-day memorial program, on Tuesday, second day of the convention, for her assassinated husband.

This significant backstage development is a direct outgrowth of the serious injuries sustained by her brother-in-law, Senator Edward Kennedy, Mass., in a plane crash.

The 32-year-old lawmaker had been under consideration as convention keynote.

Most likely choice now is between Senator Eugene McCarthy, Minn., and Senator Gale McGee, Wyo., both militant liberals and staunch administration supporters.

The decision for Mrs. Kennedy to take a leading part in the memorial program was made after President Johnson gave the word he favored holding these ceremonies on Tuesday rather than Friday, the closing day of the convention. The latter was urged by top political lieutenants of the President on the ground the memorial services on Tuesday could be used by supporters of Attorney General Robert Kennedy to sway delegates to press for his nomination as vice president. It was pointed out that an estimated 50 per cent of this year's delegates were supporters of the late President at the 1960 convention.

This possibility was carefully weighed by the President, but was discarded because another factor was deemed more important — his conviction that the convention should not wind up on a funeral note.

As one White House insider expressed it: "Having the memorial program on Tuesday is a gamble. We're fully aware that involves very definite risks. But the President feels we'll have to chance them because we certainly do not want to wind up on a mournful note."

Open Convention — The White House is keeping a close eye on undercover country-wide efforts to maneuver a so-called "open convention" on the running mate issue.

Authoritative reports from a number of states leave little doubt that influential delegates are being sounded out on such a move — for the unmistakable purpose of building up a powerful boom for the selection of Attorney General Kennedy.

It is also known that efforts are underway to persuade nationally-known Democratic leaders to declare publicly for an "open convention."

Until Senator Kennedy's near-fatal plane crash, the inner strategy called for three limelight figures of the family to participate prominently in the convention — the senator, the former First Lady, and Sargent Shriver, head of the Peace Corps and the proposed anti-poverty program.

The attorney general, the senator and Shriver have been designated delegates to the convention, and will have the valuable "privilege of the floor."

Shriver also is seeking a place on the Platform Committee. That has been put up to Illinois party leaders who are in a position to give him this prize. Potential influence is being brought to bear on them to name him as one of the state's two representatives on the committee — where Shriver could play a headline role.

Another significant facet of this situation is a developing drive to bar the seating of regular party delegations from Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana.

A revealing tip-off on this was the action of the Wisconsin State Democratic convention in overwhelmingly instructing its delegation to support the seating of a "Free Party" delegation from Mississippi — which doesn't even exist as yet. Apparently it is anticipated such a group will appear and challenge the regular party delegation.

Wisconsin Governor John Reynolds, an ardent Kennedy supporter, masterminded this strategy. He contended the regular party delegation was illegally elected because groves were excluded from voting.

Similar moves reportedly are contemplated in other Northern and Western states, with the backing of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE).

A stormy fight against the seating of the Mississippi, Alabama and Louisiana delegations could precipitate a bitter explosion at the convention — which might play into the hands of the attorney general's partisans bent on naming him the President's running mate.

Political — Premier Khrushchev is "contributing" to the Kennedy Memorial Library. The Kremlin ruler has agreed to make a tape recording of his still-secret exchanges with the late President, as well as impressions of him. Still to be determined is whether a Kennedy emissary will go to Moscow to interview Khrushchev, or he will do his own recording.

Defense Secretary McNamara is dipping into the turbulent political waters. He has agreed to allow his Washington home to be used for a $50-a-ticket fund-raising party for Representative Neil Staechele, Democratic candidate for governor of Michigan. Although Staechele is rated as a millionaire, his backers seem to feel a fund-raising party is called for.

Chief sponsors of the affair are Assistant Secretary of State G. Mennen Williams, former Michigan governor, Assistant Postmaster General Frederick Belen and Assistant HEW Secretary Wilbur Cohen.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Nibbling Calories

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.
It is sad but undeniably true that household chores do not work off the "nibbling" calories collected while doing them.

The busy housewife mistakenly believes that all her exhausting cleaning, mopping, washing and ironing is an aid to reducing.

Her helpful husband is likewise deceived. Mowing the lawn, sawing wood, and washing the car are just as unwarding to weight-watchers.

For example, only four and a half calories are used in a minute while ironing or hanging the week's wash. Making the bed or sweeping the floor are not good for much more.

Burns Few Calories
Chopping a tree burns up only a measly eight calories per minute. Playing golf or bowling gets rid of only about five calories in a minute.

The disappointment grows worse at the end of a tired day with the realization that all that furious activity used up almost the same number of calories as are contained in the first martini — which is consumed, too, in just about a minute.

Even those more ambitious and rugged individuals who go out for a vigorous game of tennis or baseball will be disheartened to know that the weight they lose momentarily is mostly water (through perspiration), which can be replaced with a refreshing drink and the generous meal they will enjoy after working up that healthy appetite.

Don't Be Discouraged
But don't be completely discouraged. Physical activity does have its rewards. Even if the scale is no kinder, muscles will be firmer, and the whole body will be grateful for the stimulation.

For the slab that remains, there is only one cure. As the sage wisely said: "The real weight-reducing exercise is pushing — pushing yourself away from the temptation of pies, puddings, pastries and second portions."

Life-Saving Teams
Teams of specially trained doctors and hospital personnel are saving lives all over the world during severe emergencies.

Hospitals have trained their personnel to insure that the race against life-saving time will be unhampered by any possible disorganization or confusion.

"All hands stand by," perframing their job with drill-like precision and absolute efficiency as soon as the alert signal is flashed through the hospital.

Stories Behind Words

by William S. Penfield

Cravat
European nations once hired trained fighting men from other countries to serve in their armies. In the early part of the 17th century, some Croats — natives of Croatia, a region in southeast Europe — served in the French army.

These Croatian soldiers wore large, linen neckcloths. French soldiers and civilians admired the neckcloths so much that their use was adopted over much of France.

The French name for a Croat was "Cravate" from the Old Slavic name "Khruvat." Since the Croats had introduced its use in France, Frenchmen referred to the neckcloth as a "cravate." The word became "cravat" in English, and is used to denote a necktie.

Pike County Turtles Flee Delaware Fire Carnival

DINGMANS FERRY—Every turtle within 50 miles is running for cover as youngsters scout the woods for the potential winner of the Delaware Township Volunteer Fire Co.'s ninth turtle derby.

Part of the annual fund raising carnival held at the firehouse on Rt. 209, heats in the derby will be run every day, July 1 through 4.

Douglas Lutz, 7, of Dingmans Ferry, is the turtle catching champion so far, having trapped 16 of the reptiles. Douglas has had offers to buy from less successful young derby aspirants, but fears he may part with the winner.

Of far less importance to turtle racers will be the selection of the Pike County Firemen's Queen. Each company in the county may send two contestants, with the winner selected by a panel of three judges.

Other events in the festival, with rain dates set for July 10 and 11, include supper served by the ladies' auxiliary at 5:30 p. m. each evening, and the traditional fireworks display on the night of July 4.

A special feature will be "dunk the fireman contest," in which more-or-less volunteers will sit upon a seat over a tank of water until some contestant hits the bullseye, dropping them into the drink.

Carnival Chairman Romaine Whittaker, fire chief, emphasized that the carnival is entirely run by the fire company, which operates solely through donations, and proceeds of the carnival.

Profits will be used toward the purchase of a new fire truck.

Graves To Head Sales Tax Office

HARRISBURG — The State Bureau of Sales and Use Tax yesterday announced the appointment of Forrest Graves of 1004 Main St., Stroudsburg, as district supervisor of the Stroudsburg sales and use tax office.

Robert Miller, assistant bureau director, said Graves will direct sales and use tax activities in Monroe and Pike Counties. He will receive $6,390 a year.

Graves will replace Douglas F. Heberling, a bureau field investigator who was serving as acting supervisor. Heberling will remain as an investigator at $4,551 a year.

Graves, a Republican committeeman from Stroudsburg's Fourth Ward, worked for the recent election of Harold Kresge as county GOP chairman.

The new district supervisor is also commander of District 8, Department of Pennsylvania Veterans of World War I.

Stan Schaffer New Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Stanley W. Schaffer Jr., 24, of Stroudsburg, RD 4, has become a staff reporter for The Daily Record.

Before coming to the Daily Record, Schaffer was employed in the advertising office of the Bethlehem Globe-Times in Allentown.

Schaffer was born in Allentown and has lived there for the past 24 years. He is a son of Mrs. Stanley W. Schaffer Sr. of Allentown.

The reporter is a graduate of William Allen High School class of 1957. He attended Muhlenberg College night school and took several writing courses.

Schaffer entered the U.S. Navy in June, 1957. After basic training, he volunteered for submarine duty and was assigned to the U.S. Naval Submarine Training Center at Groton, Conn. He was honorably discharged in June, 1961.

Stan Schaffer has been active in various Allentown civic organizations, including the Allentown Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Guthrieville Rod and Gun Club.

Office Relocation

Williams also said the Stroudsburg office will move from its present location in the Lenape Apartments at 23 S. Seventh St. across the street to 14 S. Seventh St. in a building owned by Stroudsburg Mayor Joseph Small.

Small said the bureau will move Aug. 1 and that he has signed a five-year lease, calling for $100 a month rent.

The office has been in the Lenape Apartments, owned by Dr. Floyd Shafer of Stroudsburg, since 1956. The bureau has been paying $160 a month for these offices.

It was reported that John Price, Republican county commissioner, made a bid to have the office located in a building he owns on N. Fifth St. in Stroud Township.

Kresge said, "I talked to him (Price) about putting the office in one of his buildings but no arrangement was ever started. I offered to do something in this matter but he never came to see me."

Other employees in the local office and their salaries are:

Miss O. E. Johnson of Stroudsburg, clerk typist, $2,934; Mrs. F. E. Fabel of Stroudsburg, clerk II, $3,390; and William Marsh, a Democratic holdover, field auditor II, $6,390.

Holiday Gift Center Fire Doused

STROUDSBURG — Firemen last night quickly extinguished a blaze apparently caused by an overloaded fan motor in a second floor rear window at Holiday Gift Center, 742 Main St.

Mrs. Marie Smith, daughter-in-law of the manager, was working in the store alone at about 7:45 p.m. when she smelled smoke and went upstairs to investigate. She then called firemen.

Jesse James, owner of Biggs American Restaurant next door, said the fire came to his attention when "the boy carried out some garbage and noticed the smoke. I had them (his employees) turn in an alarm."

James continued, "I had a garden hose out by the back door, so I put a ladder up to the window and put some water on the fire. There was a lot of smoke, and some flame. The window moulding was burning."

Firemen quickly put out the fire with an extinguisher, and used a ventilating fan in an effort to reduce smoke damage.

Mrs. Smith was unable immediately to estimate damage.

Courthouse Basement Occupied

STROUDSBURG — Staffs of the Monroe County Superintendent of Schools and Probation Department yesterday moved into new air conditioned quarters in the renovated basement of the courthouse.

They will be joined in the near future by the county civil defense officials.

John Litts, county school superintendent, said his staff of 10 will occupy six new offices in the courthouse.

For the last six years the school offices were located in a two-story house at 509 Scott St., Stroudsburg. Litts said the new offices will have the same amount of floor space.

Marvin Abel, adult male probation officer, said the adult and juvenile department and a collection office for support and court fines and costs will occupy separate offices.

Henry McCool is juvenile probation officer and Miss Elizabeth G. Martin is adult officer in charge of women. Miss Martin and Abel handle non-support cases.

The probation offices had been on the second floor of the courthouse.

The new offices will be equipped with an office intercom system. The basement offices will be in contact with each other and with Judge Davis' chambers and the commissioners' office.

Stroud Union Board Awards $15,676 Maintenance Bids

The bids totaled $15,676. The board awarded the following contracts:

—Raymond Cortright, general builders of East Stroudsburg, RD 2, renovate three basement classrooms at Morey Elementary School, $2,220.

—C. Edward Rahn of Stroudsburg and W. C. Evans of East Stroudsburg, RD 3, electrical work at Clearview Elementary School and Morey, $805. The two firms will share the work.

—R. J. Groner of Stroudsburg, install hot water service in the lavatories in the Analomik Elementary School, $111.

—R. M. Frantz of Stroudsburg, painting classrooms in five buildings, $6,907.

—Lindsey Fabrics of East Stroudsburg, install a cycloramic curtain in the Arlington Heights Elementary School, $869.

—Cortright, removing a 60-foot chimney at the high school, $465.

—Cortright, covering three rear exits at Morey, $973.

—Ostrander and Hough of Wind Gap and Herbert R. Imbl of Saylorsburg, blacktopping at five schools, $1,139. The two firms will share the work.

John Baynor, treasurer, and Dr. John Lim, secretary, were authorized to meet with the school district tax collectors to accept tax exoneration totals for the past year.

Guns, Bullets Reported Stolen

CANADENSIS — Eight guns and several boxes of ammunition of undetermined value were reported stolen from J. Watson's cottage on Upper Seese Hill Rd. Wednesday.

Watson, who is from Clarks Green, told Barrett Twp. police entry was gained through a window which was removed from the north side of the garage between Tuesday night and Wednesday morning.

Parents Protest Miss Eife Removal

SWIFTWATER — Smoldering resentment over changing the principal in the Barrett and Pocono Township Elementary Centers brought two petitions protesting removal of Miss Edna Eife to the policy and personnel committee of the Pocono Mountain Joint School Committee.

The joint school committee recently approved naming David Guthrie, an elementary remedial reading teacher, to the principalship at the two schools, replacing Miss Eife, who is 63.

100 Signers

The two petitions — bearing more than 100 signatures — were signed by parents from Barrett, Paradise and Pocono Townships.

The petitions stated that Miss Eife has a master's degree and after teaching in the system for 23 years deserves to retain the position of principal. She had a one-year contract as principal and will remain as a teacher next year.

James Davenport, who recommended the switch, said, "Reading is the basis of education and we feel we can put this man's talents to the best uses by making him an administrator."

Davenport said he chose Guthrie for the job with the same salary he drew as a teacher.

Matter Closed

Howard Hartshorn of Jackson Township, committee chairman, told the group the decision to replace Miss Eife with Guthrie had been made by the joint committee and as far as he was concerned the matter was officially closed.

However, he urged parents at the meeting in the junior-senior high school in Swiftwater to ask any questions about the change that may be bothering them.

Walter Melnikoff of Canadensis, who has been named to a teaching post in the high school for next year, said, "Miss Eife has been hit by a personal hurt that will never be removed, but now we should get behind her for the sake of the children."

More To Protest

Leon Oldmixon of Cresco, who presented the petitions on behalf of the parents, said other petitions will be delivered to the committee with a total of 300 to 400 signatures.

The committee took no action on the protest but indicated the matter is closed and the decision will stand.

In other business the committee passed a resolution requiring a six month waiting period before any proposal approved or disapproved by the joint committee can be returned to a sub-committee for further action.

Hartshorn said this was aimed at stopping directors "from bringing up matters a dozen times until the person that is pushing it gets his way."

The resolution passed 6-2 and will be sent to the joint committee, which has final jurisdiction over all matters handled by sub-committees.

MR. EXCHANGEITE — Roy J. Ealey, left, shows George Gary plaque naming Ealey Mr. Exchangeite of 1964 for all Exchange Clubs of Pennsylvania. Gary, club president, holds the state winning "best bulletin." (Staff Photo by Shafer)

Roy J. Ealey 1964 'Mr. Exchangeite'

PEN ARGYL — Roy J. Ealey was honored last night by his Pen Argyl Exchange Club for being named "Mr. Exchangeite of 1964" by the Pennsylvania State Exchange Clubs.

Also recognized at the meeting in the Albion House Hotel was George Gary, club president, for winning the state membership drive award and the plaque awarded the club for having the best bulletin in the state.

72 Years Old

"Asking me to talk before a group of people is like asking a blacksmith to repair a watch, but I will say this... I am very proud of the award and I'll cherish it the rest of my life."

"I'm 72 and I don't have any idea how many more years I have to live, but I'll cherish the award 'til I die," Ealey told the meeting.

Ealey is the third person in the state to hold the honor and the second from the State Belt area.

The first to receive the award was Samuel Hicks of Bangor. George Dersh of Bethlehem was the second person to win it.

All three men are members of clubs in the 4th District, which includes 12 clubs in a three-county area — Monroe, Northampton and Lehigh Counties.

Nominations for the award are made in the form of a letter to a state committee telling what the person has done for his community, church, and the Exchange Club.

Ealey's contributions to the community, church and Exchange Club are numerous.

He has at each state convention presented each outgoing president and the principal speaker with a hand carved slate product. These gifts range from bookends to wall plaques.

Gary, club president, said, "The things this man has done are almost too numerous to mention. Locally he has headed the March of Dimes campaign for many years, worked with the Salvation Army board, and he has done many, many things to beautify and repair his church."

Trip to Florida
Gary told the meeting that he received, as his award for the membership drive, a trip to Florida.

The award was made after Gary brought 13 new members into the Pen Argyl club.

The club's plaque for the best bulletin has not been received by the club.

Exchange Student
After the honors the membership heard Miss Ingrid Fischbach of Cologne, Germany, an exchange student who graduated this year from Pen Argyl High School, speak.

Miss Fischbach showed color slides of German cities and beauty spots along the Rhine River.

She will return to Germany, by jet airplane from the John F. Kennedy International Airport, Aug. 2.

Mixed Emotions
Miss Fischbach told the meeting, "I have mixed emotions about returning to Germany. I have made so many wonderful friends here in the area that I hate to leave them. Without exception my closest friend, and one I will continue corresponding with, is Mrs. George Heimer (with whom she has lived the past year)."

Bill Scranton Rolls Up Sleeves To Battle Vote-Wealthy Barry

By ROBERT S. VAN FLEET
Chief, Ottawa News Service
HARRISBURG, Pa. — One view of William Warren Scranton's plunge as an active candidate for the Republican Presidential nomination is that he had to do it to keep from going down in political history as an indecisive Hamlet.

It is probably true that two weeks ago, the Pennsylvania governor, listening to flip-flopping advice from former President Dwight Eisenhower, did, indeed, fit the cartoonist's image of a bather with his big toe half in and half out of the chilling waters of big-time politics.

But having plunged, Scranton is anything but a Hamlet. He has become a scurrying David, armed with the sling-shot ammunition of only a few delegate votes, attempting to slay a be-spectacled giant of a Sen. Goldwater whose ramparts are swarming with 600 or more delegate-defenders.

Scranton is now on the candidate's road. In two weeks, he must do the work of six months if his campaign is to bear any more than dwarf fruit at the Republican convention in San Francisco beginning July 13.

The conventional phrase is to say that a man going to work on a project as big as the Pennsylvania millionaire-governor is undertaking has "rolled up his sleeves."

Mary Alone
In the case of Scranton—and his wife, Mary, who is accompanying him on the last-minute campaign—it is more accurate to say they are taking their shoes off.

Last week during the three final days of their first week of campaigning, the Scrantons beat a far-fetched path that led from Minneapolis to Denver to Harrisburg to Louisville to Boston.

In all, they covered ground at the rate of almost 8,000 miles a week.

While "barefoot path" is an overstatement, it is nevertheless indicative of the kind of relaxation-under-pressure that emanates from the Scrantons—even under the tensions generated by four threats against his life during that first week.

Polka Dancers
Aboard the plane between hops it was shoes off. And for Mary Scranton, it was shoes off whenever her husband—as he frequently does—tells a crowd: "We'll dance a polka for you."

An example of this was Boston last weekend when they dropped in at a crowded hotel ballroom where the Massachusetts Young Republicans were having a pre-convention affair.

After receiving a rousing welcome—almost free of the heckling "We want Barry" signs that had lined their path in the mid-West—the Scrantons climbed down from the dais on which they spoke briefly to the delegates and made their way to a stage at the other end of the ballroom.

There, with the band members tooting "Pennsylvania Polka," and scampering to the back of the stage to keep out of the way of flying Scranton feet, the 46-year-old governor and his wife twirled dizzily—and precariously near the edge of the two-foot stage.

The crowd at Boston, which gave him his best reception of his campaign, loved it and let the governor know it.

Just before the dance, as he began to speak to the crowd, a large Goldwater sign was thrust aloft by three conservative Young Republicans.

The crowd interrupted Scranton with a swelling chant, "Put that sign down, put that sign down." When the sign was hauled down by its bearers, a cheer went up from the Republicans, Scranton grinned and resumed talking.

Scranton is one of the new politicians who have emerged in recent years.

They are the wealthy, generally moderate or liberal men who have decided to take an active interest in public affairs.

Included in their ranks are the Kennedys, a couple of Rockefeller (Nelson and Winthrop), Averell Harriman, and the Lodges (Henry Cabot and John).

Scranton, whose background includes a family with utility and real estate interests in the Scranton, Pa., region that bears his name, was schooled at Hotchkiss, a highly selective prep school in Connecticut. He went to Yale University and Law School.

Herter Aide

He was a special assistant to Secretary of State Christian A. Herter under Eisenhower in 1959 and 1960. He so delighted his neighbors in the Scranton area by running for Congress, campaigning from house-to-house, even in the rain, that they elected him for a term in 1961-62.

In the fall of 1962, he ran for governor, winning by almost half a million votes.

So his political timetable, if he should overcome the long-shot odds that are now assigned him, would be Congress in 1966, governor in 1968, and President in 1972, a fast rise in anybody's book.

But there have been few major political candidates who have undertaken a national campaign in recent years who are so little known as Scranton.

While his name has been in print much of the time since the 1964 campaign opened, not many voters outside his own state feel they know him.

This makes his last-minute drive for the nomination all the more difficult. His problem is to gain maximum exposure among voters.

At the same time, he is faced with the monumental job of heading off an apparently inevitable first-ballot nomination by Sen. Barry Goldwater, the Arizona conservative, who has been campaigning for many months and through several state primary elections.

Two Factors
After his plane has taken off on a campaign hop, the governor leans against an overhead coat rack, and is asked how he thinks he can do it.

"Two things have got to happen," he says. "First, the people have got to be stirred up. And then they will put the bee on the delegates."

His view seems almost to fit the plot of the new, best-selling novel, "Convention," in which a flood of telegrams from voters to delegates turned the convention tide.

Barry, Commanding Officer
He moves down the aisle of the airplane, pausing at the seat of still another reporter.

He is reminded that he and Goldwater are in the same Army reserve unit, the one made up of members of Congress.

BOMB THREAT — While the plane is inspected after the bomb threat, Scranton and his wife wait with Dr. Maurice K. Goddard, Pennsylvania's secretary of forests and waters.

Mary Scranton Unruffled By Rigorous Campaign

HARRISBURG — On a simple blue dress, the candidate's wife wears a gold pin. It says:

"Mary Scranton, Bill's wife." She's five-foot-six, has dark hair, and dances a vigorous polka with her husband.

Her reticence at talking about herself, leaves room for wonder that she ever permitted her own name to be printed on the pin she wears.

If she had her way, the pin probably would have said:

"Bill Scranton's wife."

The former Mary Chamberlain is a graduate of Smith College in Massachusetts, not far from Yale where her husband studied. During the war, she served in Washington as a research analyst in aviation for Military Intelligence. They were married the July after Pearl Harbor. Her husband served as an Army pilot during the war. The Scrantons are the parents of four children ranging in age from 19 to 10. The oldest is a daughter, and the other three are boys.

Goldwater, a reserve general, is commander. Scranton, a reserve major, has belonged to it since he was in Congress a few years ago.

"Will you take orders from the general?" the reporter asks.

"Yes," the governor says, "but I won't always agree with him. You know, I'm the sort of lieutenant who winds up sitting in the general's chair."

"By promotion?"

"No, by mistake. Wrong chair."

Scranton is tall, standing erect. His hair is graying from the bottom edges toward the top, which is still dark.

He smiles even when his mouth is immobile. He does it with the eyes and with prominent eyebrows which nudge up slightly when he looks at people.

When he breaks out in a full smile, the eyebrows go way up, and his forehead wrinkles.

But his face goes stern when he addresses a crowd. He is openly critical of Goldwater since the senator's negative vote on civil rights. It is the major issue between them.

Prior to that, he had been critical by indirection, referring to some of the blunt Goldwater statements that reportedly have embarrassed his campaign staff.

The big one was the senator's proposal to use a nuclear bomb to defoliate jungles in southeast Asia.

'Shoot-from-the-hip' Talk
"Shoot-from-the-hip" talk is what Scranton calls this.

"Do you want a President who will shoot from the hip or think with his head?"

This sort of campaigning is drawing an enthusiastic response in the east. The reaction is not so warm in the mid-west.

All of which is indicative of another problem Scranton faces.

He is being labeled the candidate of the industrial east, of the liberal big cities of the east, or of Madison Avenue.

In this, he has donned the mantle of Nelson Rockefeller, who has switched his support and about $5 million of political research and staffing to Scranton. The organization of Ambassador Lodge has also backed him.

All these men are easterners.

fail to note that she kicks off her shoes before dancing.

The troubles and odd-ball situation of the campaign trail have not escaped her.

Once, while they were campaigning for governor, she talked about her ability to milk a cow. She was challenged to do it. And she did.

Another time, wrapped in a hotel bedspread, she had to set off down the corridor in search of missing clothes that had not come back from the two-hour laundry.

All of which is to say Mary Scranton takes the campaign rigors with the rest of the growing Scranton party. She gets few concessions, although she was first one ushered off their chartered airplane last week in Harrisburg when it was evacuated just before take-off and following an anonymous telephone threat that there was bomb aboard.

With that she was given a big bouquet of red roses, which she promptly began picking apart and tossing to the girls in the crowd who jumped for them like bridesmaids.

Then, as happens often, she was led off by the governor to dance a spirited demonstration Pennsylvania polka. Few people

Can it work? One man in the Scranton party puts it this way:

"It's a long shot. But I like long shots, like betting that the Met will wind up in seventh place."

In short short perspective, the only one possible now, Scranton may not be in a position to win. But he is in a position to keep the Republican convention the open one that President Eisenhower has asked for.

More than that, a lot more people are going to learn about Bill Scranton in the days to come.

And a couple of ifs: — If Eisenhower (in addition to Milton Eisenhower) should come out for him.

— If civil rights hurts Goldwater as much as the moderates and liberals think . . .

Tactic Number One is to keep all the favorite son candidates in the race.

This will prevent delegations from breaking up and freeing delegates — even if only a straggling few from each delegation — to vote for Goldwater.

Tactic Number Two is to visit the uncommitted delegates and those who may be classified as "leaners" and not yet decided.

Stop 1st Ballot
The principal strategy must be to stop a first-ballot victory for the Arizona in San Francisco less than three weeks from now.

RELAXED SCRANTON—Aboard the chartered campaign DC-6, Scranton spends much of his time talking with reporters. He pares down to his shirtsleeves and stockinged feet.

SPEECH INTERRUPTED — Scranton's Massachusetts speech was interrupted by a chant of "We want Scranton," followed by a competing chant of "We want Barry." U. S. Sen. Leverett Saltonstall jumped to the rostrum to pound a gavel and call for quiet.

Effort Mother 19, Collapses

Just Between Us —

We all looked a little like gold fish gasping in a bowl that had been set in the sun yesterday, since there just didn't seem to be enough oxygen in the hot and heavy air.

It seemed a crime to leave the river just to work, but there were compensations, although at the moment it's a little hard to think of them. Actually, I'm the most unlikely nature lover you ever heard of but I do appreciate it, if it doesn't require any particular effort.

I don't like camping in tents, mosquitos or walking except on a golf course. But I love looking—especially when the light is slanting, preferably in late afternoon, and each tree stands out from every other tree. In fact each leaf stands out from every other leaf like the realistic paintings that sophisticated clair are too detailed. And with yesterday's heat, each range of mountains was separated from the one behind it by a sort of scalloped haze.

I like the flush of colors from the flowers that fly across the river road, the red-wing blackbirds on the fence posts, the cocky crest of the kingfisher along the river bank at Shawnee. I don't want to know their scientific names or anything except just look at them.

Which is just about as comfortable a way to endure a heat wave as there is. All I'm hoping is that the predicted drop in temperature lasts through the weekend weddings, of which there ought to be a slew according to the marriage licenses.

Since we haven't caught up to last week's crops, this poses a certain threat, but we're getting there.

The shoots will be open to members and guests, and to anyone from the area who wishes to participate.

NCAA Track Finals Show Olympic Strength

By JACK STEVENSON
EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — College track's premier production of 1964, the NCAA Championships, displayed continuing improvement during this Olympic year.

"The meet showed we are strong everywhere," said Coach Bill Bowerman, whose winning University of Oregon team surprised by piling up 70 points.

"Our strong points are stronger than they have ever been," said Bowerman in surveying the meet as a whole. "Look at the pole vaulters, the high jump, broad jump. All the events."

"In the triple jump we're away up from the past, even in the discus."

"In the javelin, the United States still has some distance to go to equal Europe. But we have some fine prospects, particularly Les Tipton."

In the 1,500-meter run, the 5-

000 and the 10,000 all six place winners surpassed the previous NCAA meet record.

Marks fell National collegiate marks fell in the 1,500 and steeplechase.

Morgan Groth of Oregon State won the metric mile in 3:40.4 in the fastest 1,500-meter race ever run by collegians. He bettered the collegiate record of 3:40.9 and the meet record of 3:44.2. Both were set in the college days of Dwyol Burleson, currently America's premier miler. Villanova's Vic Zwolak continued the great showings in distance events as he went the 3,000-meter steeplechase in 8:42.0. Winning by a big margin, he beat the collegiate record set by Pat Traynor, also of Villanova, at 8:45.6 in 1963. Traynor set the meet mark of 8:48.6 in 1962. Other meet records were 20:37.8 by San Jose's Danny Murphy in the 10,000-meters; 14:12.3 by Jim Murphy of the Air Force

Shawnee Women Host Golfers

SHAWNEE — The Shawnee Country Club Tuesday in a medal play handicap tournament.

Winners were Elsie Cressner of Glen Brook, net of 70; Alice Johnson of Northampton, net of 71; low gross scores were posted by Irene Sales of Northampton with an 86 and Lura Evans of Shawnee with an 88, and a net of 74.

and Bill Straub of Army, who ran a dead heat in the 5,000-meters, and the 25-9/4 broad jump by Arizona's Gayle Hopkins. Les Tipton of Oregon won the javelin at 249-10/4.

Miss Pocono Sent Off To State Pageant Test

STROUDSBURG—A kiss on the hand in the continental manner expressed best wishes for Miss Patricia Lee Falcinelli, current Miss Pocono, yesterday, from Eric Schuchard, president of the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau.

Miss Falcinelli, accompanied by Mrs. Robert Besacker, representative of the Barrett Junior Women's Club and Miss Falcinelli's personal hostess, were driven to West Chester for the four-day round of activities before the Miss Pennsylvania Pageant Saturday night.

Miss Mimi Mikels, daughter of Warren Mikels, president of Mikels Motors, which provided a convertible for the trip, was her driver.

The local agency is cooperating with the state and national division of General Motors which sponsors the Miss America Pageant.

TV Pageant

Climax of the four-day series of rehearsals and festivities will be the appearance of Miss Falcinelli, representing the Pocono on Channel 3, WRCV-TV, Philadelphia, Saturday between 9 p. m. and 11 p. m. in the annual Miss Pennsylvania Pageant if she passes preliminary eliminations.

Miss Pocono will appear in the preliminary pageant Friday night with 19 other girls from various sections of the state.

That night, 10 semi-finalists will be chosen to present their talent competitions during the television program.

Saturday night, the 20 contestants will open the show at 9 p. m. wearing evening gowns. Miss America of 1962, Miss Marie Beale Fletcher, will be mistress of ceremonies.

This week, June 22 to 27 has been designated by Gov. William Scranton as Miss Pennsylvania Week. Winner of the pageant will receive a four-year scholarship.

A cash scholarship of $1,000 will be awarded by Pepsi-Cola Bottlers. Other scholarships will be given to the runners-up the last night of the pageant.

Miss Falcinelli will be judged on appearance in evening gown and swim suit. Poise and personality, on and offstage, will be considered.

Most important is the talent competition.

"The Hollow Men" by T. S. Elliot, a dramatic reading, which was her talent show in the Miss Pocono pageant will be her choice for the state competition.

After the television show Saturday night, the contestants will return to guest homes provided in West Chester. Sunday, they will be guests at an awards luncheon when scholarships and final awards are made.

On her return to the Pocono, Miss Falcinelli will continue to represent the area until April of 1965 when her successor will be chosen in the Barrett Junior Women's Club Miss Pocono Pageant, sponsored by the Pocono Mountain Vacation Bureau.

Port Jervis Man Sued For Crash

STROUDSBURG — A suit claiming a Port Jervis man struck the truck of a Philadelphia firm while it was parked in East Stroudsburg was filed yesterday in the office of Frank Smith, Monroe County prothonotary.

Ilenkels and McCoy, Inc. of Philadelphia ask damages in excess of $10,000 for the accident, which occurred Jan. 29, 1963, while the plaintiff's truck was parked on the east side of North Courtland St.

The suit claims that a car driven by Christian C. Noller of Port Jervis, N.Y., hit the rear end of the truck and forced the truck into the car ahead of it.

Damages to the truck were listed at $327. The suit was filed for the plaintiff by Samuel W. Newman, a partner in the law firm of Mervine, Brown and Newman of Stroudsburg.

State, Town Engineers View Rt. 611 Airport By-Pass

COOLBAUGH TWP. — State and township engineers yesterday inspected the township's Pocono Mountains airport by-pass road, thus clearing the way to its opening and the barricading of old Rt. 611 through the airport. F. Carl Witherow, state highway district engineer, said.

Witherow said that the date of barricading will depend upon "how fast the (Coolbaugh Twp.) board of supervisors moves." He expects to receive certification of by-pass inspection Monday, at which point the state will begin abandonment proceedings on old Rt. 611 to the township.

When the township then vacates old 611, Pocono Mountains Airport Authority will be allowed to erect barricades,

Johnson Speaks At Portland

PORTLAND — William Johnson of Stroudsburg, an aide to Gov. William W. Scranton, was the guest speaker at the recent meeting of the Republican Club of Portland and Upper Mount Bethel Twp. in Johnny's Restaurant, Portland.

Johnson told the meeting of the programs in Harrisburg of the Republican party.

In other business, Paul Hay, club president, announced that the next meeting will be held Friday, July 17, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Buck of Bangor, RD 1.

Witherow concluded. At that point the Federal Aviation Agency will release about $24,000 airport construction aid it has held until the runway road is barricaded.

In a report filed yesterday with the Monroe County Commissioner by R. Leftoy Dengler, chairman of the airport authority, it stated that all municipalities participating in the authority, except Coolbaugh Twp., have verbally agreed to contribute one-quarter mill on the assessed valuation of the municipality to the support of the airport.

Coolbaugh Twp. agreed to appropriate $500, and hopes to go along with the quarter mill assessment in the future. Dengler said that Barrett Twp. has already passed the necessary resolution to implement the agreement.

Assessments will be used to construct a general utility hangar, a sewage disposal plant, and ten individual T-hangars under one roof. In addition, $8,000 has been appropriated already for repairs to runways 13 and 31, the report continued.

Plans for the facilities by E. Kenney Crothers, architect, have been approved in Harrisburg, and bids will be advertised Friday. Completion by Dec. 1, 1964, or earlier is anticipated, Dengler's report said.

The airport will be operated by the authority until construction of facilities is well underway. Eight prospective operators have already applied to the authority, he said.

With one full-time and one part-time employee, the airport is open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., while planes desiring to use it at other hours may contact the Mt. Pocono Electric Co. for service, Dengler pointed out.

The report said that from June 1 to 22 inclusive, there was a definite increase in activity. A total of 63 planes used the facility, with 2,058 passengers and pilots landing and taking off during the period.

In addition, Dengler told the commissioners, 2,058 gallons of gas and 79 quarts of oil were sold.

Robert Kennedy To Speak At Berlin Square Memorial

By Richard Spang
Editorial Research Reports
WASHINGTON — Attorney Gen. Robert F. Kennedy will deliver a memorial lecture at the Free University of West Berlin on Friday, June 26.

The main square of West Berlin is affectionately named John F. Kennedy Platz. It was from the Schoeneberger Rathaus, the city hall, that President Kennedy declared, just a year ago: "All free men, wherever they may live, are citizens of Berlin. And therefore, as a free man, I take pride in the words, 'Ich bin ein Berliner.'"

So it is appropriate that the late President's brother and closest companion should be delivering the Kennedy memorial lecture at the Free University of West Berlin on the anniversary of that visit. President Kennedy a year ago was made an honorary citizen of the university, endowed in 1945 by the Ford Foundation.

The speech a year ago was an emotional, a response to perhaps the warmest reception President Kennedy had ever been given. It seemed that nearly all of West Berlin's 2 1/2 million people had swarmed into the streets to greet him. They chanted, "Kan-adee." And he replied with a kind of rhythmic eloquence that was more feeling than wisdom. To emphasize Berlin's meaning in the East-West struggle he observed that 2,000 years ago the proudest boast was clivis Romanus and that today the equivalent was Ich bin ein Berliner.

There are many people in the world who really don't understand or say they don't—that is the issue between the free world and the Communist world. Let them come to Berlin. There are some who say that Communism is the wave of the future. Let them come to Berlin. And there are some who say in Europe and elsewhere, 'we can work with the Communists.' Let them come to Berlin. And there are even a few who say that it's true that Communism is an evil system but it permits us to make economic progress. Let them come to Berlin.

Freedom has many difficulties and democracy is not perfect. But we have never had to put a wall up to keep our people in, to prevent them from leaving us.

For a chief of state who was just then negotiating a limited nuclear test ban with the principal Communist nation, this was perhaps too much. The President certainly sensed this. For in a speech that afternoon at the West Berlin University, Kennedy said that he had meant his earlier words as a warning against "popular fronts" with Communists because: "I do not believe any democratic can successfully ride that tiger."

Kennedy said that of course he believed in great powers working together to preserve the human race. He reverted to his much quoted American University address of the previous June 10. "When the possibilities of reconciliation appeared," he declared, "we in the West will make it clear that we are not hostile to any people or system, provided that they choose their own destiny without interfering with the free choice of others."

The Kennedy visit to West Berlin a year ago was a welcome reaffirmation of American involvement in the city's free future, and so it was interpreted by the Berliners.
